Prussian Empire Kettenkarre Tankette

Kettenkarres are equipped with fixed-mount MG71 machine guns fired by their drivers with an electrical trigger. They spearhead Prussian assaults and act as a physical barrier if necessary to shield the Grenadiers from enemy fire, while using their own formidable weaponry to suppress target positions. Once the combined formations are within range, the infantry break cover from behind the Kettenkarres and storm forward to overwhelm the enemy defenders, with the tankettes offering supporting fire. 2 models per box.
